Abstract

An identification tag for identifying instruments is provided, the identification tag including a body having an insertion portion configured to be inserted into an instrument-holding device and a labeling panel configured to be selectively marked with user-selected identification information.